PRICES OF FARM STOCKS GO HIGH IN WEEK'S TRADE

Anticipated Income From Agriculture Results In Market Boom

STEEL SHARES DROP

Cotton Steady, But Grains Dip on Chicago Board

Wheat prices dropped three cents on the Circleville market Saturday. It was listed at $1.14 per bushel as compared to $1.17 Friday. Corn was down five cents per bushel. Saturday's price for yellow corn was $1.14, and for white corn, $1.21.

NEW YORK, June 5—(UP)—Dull week-end trading found the stock market following an irregular course today with only farm equipment issues showing any definite move.

Forecasts for increase of around one billion dollars in farm income this year and private reports of a billion dollar wheat crop stirred interest in farm equipment issues. International Harvester rose almost two points to a new high for the year and J. I. Case at its peak had around three points against Deere & Company was strong, but Oliver Farm slipped off.

Steel Demands Weak
Steel shares lost early strength. Some districts reported increased demand from customers whose supplies have been shut-off by strikes in mid-western plants, resulting in high operating rates at some points, particularly Pittsburgh, which continues above 90 percent of capacity.

U. S. Steel, after gaining fractionally to 102½, slipped back to a fractional loss. Republic and (Continued on Page Two)

C. C. C. YOUTHS, HUNTING PLANE, FIND SOME GOLD

ALPINE, Utah, June 5.—(UP)—A searching party of CCC enrollees sent into the mountain wilderness to look for the Western Air Express plane that disappeared last December 15 reported today it struck gold.

It was a minor strike, made in a creek bed during the burial of garbage, but it caused the youths temporarily to forget their mission and the $1,000 reward offered by the airlines.

The main searching party was located at a temporary camp 9,000 feet up a mountainside, where pieces of mail from the lost plane's cargo had been found. Frank Eastman, in charge of the search, believed the wreckage might be found momentarily. A mile-square terrain, banked in places with 30 feet of snow, provided the searching grounds.

AIDES OF F.D.R. FIGHT FOR BILL

Congressional Leaders Take Over Direction of Court Revision Measure

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(UP)—Administration congressional leaders took over active direction of the supreme court enlargement bill from the White House today.

While they undertook to guide the battered program to a compromise settlement, there was definite and authoritative word that President Roosevelt was not likely to have the opportunity of appointing more than one new justice to the court this summer.

Justice George Sutherland told the United Press that he had no intention of resigning during the summer recess and that he did not believe any of his associates intended to retire. Rumors current for weeks have said that Sutherland and one or two other justices might follow Justice Willis Van Devanter into retirement.

The administration congressional leaders were believed to be planning to use the judiciary measure as a "key" in pushing other legislation—particularly the hours and wages bill—if they fail of a compromise settlement.

Twenty-two employees from various other stores in the Isaly group assisted on the opening day.

ROCKEFELLER'S WILL PROBATED

Margaret De Cuevas To Have Income During Her Entire Life

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 5.—(UP)—The will of John D. Rockefeller, who died in Ormond Beach, Fla., May 23 at the age of 97, was filed for probate today in the office of Surrogate William J. Sheils of Westchester county.

The estate was valued at approximately $25,000,000.

The entire estate was left to Margaret Strong De Cuevas, a granddaughter of the oil magnate who is to have the income during her lifetime.

The petition for probate was signed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., one of the executors.

The will is a long document, and it has three codicils.

A memorandum on the will was issued by Sinclair Hamilton and Mizell Wilson, of the law firm of Milbank, Tweed, Hope and Webb, New York City, attorneys for John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The memorandum in full: "Mr. Rockefeller's will is dated June 2, 1925, and there are three codicils dated May 14, 1930, November 4, 1932, and October 3, 1934, respectively."

The will was also given to families who sold their non-agricultural land, and who wish to take up farming in this better agricultural area. We will also give preference to low-income farm families and tenants who indicate a desire to become farm owners. This is a step toward making farm owners out of former tenants."

POLICE GUARDING HOME OF F. D.'S COLLEGIAN SONS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 5.—(UP)—Plain clothes police guarded today the Harvard College home of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and his younger brother, John, after the president's sons had tried to capture a prowler.

The guard was ordered by Police Chief Timothy F. Leahy after John reported that he and his brother had chased a man from the parking space in the rear of their home early yesterday.

Franklin, who was standing before an open window, saw the man meddling with a parked car. He shouted to companions and together they chased the man several blocks only to lose him in the courtyard of Westmore Hall.

John reportedly told police that several students have been victims of thefts during the last fortnight.

The Roosevelts reported no personal losses.

51 Units To Be Built By Resettlement Authority In Pickaway, Ross

MATERIALS ORDERED

Former Tenants, Owners Of Poor Land To Be Aided

Construction work on the 51 farm units of the Scoto Farms project of Resettlement administration will be started within a few days. Materials for the buildings to be constructed on the project already have been ordered.

The project is situated in Pickaway and Ross counties. It will open the way for former farm tenants and owners of equities in poor land to become residents of a better farming area, with the possibility that they later may purchase their tracts on a 40-year amortization basis.

Headquarters for the project is in Atlanta, Perry township.

The Scoto Farms project represents a step in the Resettlement Administration's program of demonstrating how tenants may evolve into farm owners through the process of leasing their non-agricultural land and taking up residence in a better area.

At least 49 new houses will be constructed, two houses will be remodeled, and the 60 to 80-acre tracts will have complete sets of improvements when the new residents move in.

Houses will have from four to six rooms each. Families securing the farms will lease, and eventually may purchase, the farms.

"We selected this area because it is adapted to diversified farming," said P. G. Beck, assistant regional director of the Resettlement Administration, Saturday. "Marketing and transportation facilities also were a factor."

"Preference will be given to families who sold their non-agricultural land, and who wish to take up farming in this better agricultural area. We will also give preference to low-income farm families and tenants who indicate a desire to become farm owners. This is a step toward making farm owners out of former tenants."

Ghost of Female Bluebeard Watches Over Duke, Wife in Austrian Castle

NOETSCH, Austria, June 5.—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor and his bride honeymooned at their Wasserleoburg castle today with only a rampart wolf, a ghost, two dozen detectives, 100 gendarmes, a corps of newspaper correspondents and the curious hundreds of this village to intrude on their privacy.

They arrived soon after midnight at the castle and passed, in the great hall, the forbidding portrait of old Anna Neumann, the female bluebeard of Noetsch, who is supposed to stalk its corridors by night.

This morning they were told not to be worried over the wolf that is loose in the countryside, killing calves. Two hundred men are tracking it down.

Duke and duchess were tired out after their 24-hour train ride from mid-France, and slept late this morning.

Swimming Pool Renovated
They were expected during the day to use for the first time the excellent private swimming pool of the castle. It has been renovated completely for them.

The duke was reported to have his bagpipes with him and there was the prospect this week-end of a concert by him that would send the haunting notes of his favorite instrument through the ghostly castle halls. Both the Duke's Scotland Yard guards, Detective Inspectors David Storer and Philip Atfield, are Scots and enjoy the skirl of the pipes.

Arriving from their train with their motorcade of six cars the duke and duchess entered the castle to find a meal awaiting them.

Bees Go on Spree, Halt Traffic

WHEN the queen abdicated, a swarm of bees started out to explore downtown Wichita, Kansas. They finally convened on the fender of this automobile at a traffic signal. The driver abdicated and traffic came to a standstill. John Wright, a bee expert, came to the rescue of concerned pedestrians and the bees' spree ended.

Man, Thought Amnesia Victim, Held by Sheriff

The sheriff's department was checking Saturday to learn the identity of a man, believed an amnesia victim, brought to the county jail Friday night from New Holland.

Officers described the man as between 35 and 37 years of age, white, five feet eleven inches tall, 132 pounds, light brown hair scarce on the crown, heavily freckled, arms, and wearing a grey coat, light striped shirt, light brown checkered trousers, and a black and white checkered cap.

The man was brought to Circleville by Deputy Sheriff Marshall Spangler after a call was received from Mossbarger's restaurant. He had been in New Holland a night and a day.

He had no bill fold for identification. The only articles he carried were a razor with no blade, a key some personal letters believed written by his mother and a sister, an a business card of G. C. Chandler, cement contractor, 2420 Deming avenue, Columbus. Officer Spangler was unable to reach Mr. Chandler by telephone Saturday.

The letters were torn and without envelopes. One was signed "Ruth" and headed Little Rock, Ark. It was addressed to "Paul."

Efforts to make the man talk have been almost fruitless. Spangler informed the man Saturday he was trying to get in touch with some friends, and his only reply was "I haven't any."

The Benedict Transportation Lines, Columbus, filed a list of 13 witnesses, Friday, to be called for Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the $22,786 suit filed against the company by Mrs. Ruth Elisea, widow of Asa Elisea.

Hearing of the suit will start in common pleas court Monday. Ten witnesses have been called by the plaintiff.

The suit grew out of a collision in March, 1936, in which Mr. Elisea, John McCrady and Bernard Dowden were killed. An auto in which they were riding collided with a tractor and trailer operated by the company on Route 23.

Witnesses called by the company are Loring Evans and Earl C. Robinson, city; Merle and Malcolm Rathburn and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, who reside along Route 23; Sam Scott, South Bloomfield; Max Gray, Route 104; Jack and Helen Heeter, 2542 1/2 Cleveland avenue, Columbus; Allen Jones, Lockbourne, Route 1; Harold Carpenter, Winton hotel, Columbus, and Albert Schaffer, 315 E. Whittier street, Columbus.

40 Youngstown Deputies Fire Into Crowd Blocking One-Car Train

Mayor Orders Officers To Leave Plant Vicinity

DETROIT, June 5.—(UP)—The United Automobile Workers today made public the text of an "open letter" to Henry Ford in which it charged that "Fordism is really gangsterism, Fascism and feudalism."

CLEVELAND, June 5.—(UP)—Sheriff's deputies used tear gas to dispel 600 pickets and sympathizers at a Youngstown Sheet and Tube company plant today in the first open clash on the Ohio steel strike front.

The gassing occurred at Struthers, O., a Youngstown suburb, where 40 deputies held back a crowd which attempted to block entry of a one-car train into a sheet and tube mill. No one was injured.

In the tense situation which followed the clash, Mayor T. A. Roberts, of Struthers, met with leaders of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, who demand that deputies be withdrawn from the Struthers area. The request was met.

Shortly later, when the locomotive returned, leaving the car in the plant, deputies said pickets melted a short stretch of track to prevent any further passage over the same rails.

It was not thought that more than a maintenance man and one or two others were inside the tube plant at the time the train entered.

Train As Test
S.W.O.C. leaders contended that sheet and tube was running in the train as a possible test of whether it could infiltrate men to the plant. Sheet and tube executives could not be reached at once for comment.

It was the first action at a plant of sheet and tube, which with Inland Steel, another of the three strike-bound independent steel producers, has not attempted to operate during the siege. Republic Steel corporation, largest of the three, has maintained partial operation at a few mills.

BY UNITED PRESS
Open fighting flared on the Ohio steel front today as 40 sheriff's deputies sprayed tear gas on 600 pickets and sympathizers who sought to block entry of a train into a mill of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company at Struthers, O.

Republic Steel corporation, continuing operations despite the walkout of members of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, sought to obtain delivery by U. S. mail of food and clothing to workers still in the plants.

The corporation planned to protest again to Postmaster General James A. Farley against alleged refusal to accept for delivery "irregular mail."

In Detroit, members of the United Automobile Workers union called a meeting for 2 p. m. (EST) near Henry Ford's enormous River Rouge plant. Police took special precautions to prevent recurrence of fighting which broke out last week when union leaders sought to distribute literature at the Ford factory.

At Munising, Mich., state police, armed with tear gas and guns, surrounded the Alger county courthouse to prevent striking lumberjacks from seizing control of the relief administration. Approximately 6,000 timber workers have been idle in the upper Michigan peninsula as the result of a bitter strike.

In Richmond, Calif., U. A. W. members in the Ford assembly plant voted to continue their strike for union recognition.

One-Car Train

RAIL TRACK MELTED

Mayor Orders Officers To Leave Plant Vicinity

DETROIT, June 5—(UP)—The United Automobile Workers today made public the text of an "open letter" to Henry Ford in which it charged that "Fordism is really gangsterism, Fascism and feudalism."

CLEVELAND, June 5—(UP)—Sheriff's deputies used tear gas to dispel 600 pickets and sympathizers at a Youngstown Sheet and Tube company plant today in the first open clash on the Ohio steel strike front.

The gassing occurred at Struthers, O., a Youngstown suburb, where 40 deputies held back a crowd which attempted to block entry of a one-car train into a sheet and tube mill. No one was injured.

In the tense situation which followed the clash, Mayor T. A. Roberts, of Struthers, met with leaders of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, who demand that deputies be withdrawn from the Struthers area. The request was met.

Shortly later, when the locomotive returned, leaving the car in the plant, deputies said pickets melted a short stretch of track to prevent any further passage over the same rails.

It was not thought that more than a maintenance man and one or two others were inside the tube plant at the time the train entered.

Train As Test

S.W.O.C. leaders contended that sheet and tube was running in the train as a possible test of whether it could infiltrate men to the plant. Sheet and tube executives could not be reached at once for comment.

It was the first action at a plant of sheet and tube, which with Inland Steel, another of the three strike-bound independent steel producers, has not attempted to operate during the siege. Republic Steel corporation, largest of the three, has maintained partial operation at a few mills.

The sheriff's deputies were re-

The Strike Scene

BY UNITED PRESS

Open fighting flared on the Ohio steel front today as 40 sheriff's deputies sprayed tear gas on 600 pickets and sympathizers who sought to block entry of a train into a mill of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company at Struthers, O.

Republic Steel corporation, continuing operations despite the walkout of members of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, sought to obtain delivery by U. S. mail of food and clothing to workers still in the plants.

The corporation planned to protest again to Postmaster General James A. Farley against alleged refusal to accept for delivery "irregular mail."

In Detroit, members of the United Automobile Workers union called a meeting for 2 p. m. (EST) near Henry Ford's enormous River Rouge plant. Police took special precautions to prevent recurrence of fighting which broke out last week when union leaders sought to distribute literature at the Ford factory.

At Munising, Mich., state police, armed with tear gas and guns, surrounded the Alger county courthouse to prevent striking lumberjacks from seizing control of the relief administration. Approximately 6,000 lumber workers have been idle in the upper Michigan peninsula as the result of a bitter strike.

In Richmond, Calif., U. A. W. members in the Ford assembly plant voted to continue their strike for union recognition.

Dunlap Calls Campaigners For Report Following Kiwanis Meeting

SUCCESS IS EXPECTED

$600 Being Sought To Aid Youth In District

Renick Dunlap, chairman of the sustaining membership appeal for the Boy Scouts of the Pickaway district, announced today that all workers who are assisting in the campaign to raise $600 will meet immediately after the Kiwanis meeting at Hanley's Tea Room Monday evening. An accounting will be made at this time to learn how much has been obtained in the Circleville drive, which was inaugurated last Tuesday with an "Early Bird Breakfast."

Dwight Steele, Kiwanis president, declared that all workers not members of the Kiwanis Club were invited to the regular Club dinner-meeting immediately preceding the Scouter meeting.

Reports Optimistic

Early reports indicate a successful campaign, according to Dunlap. Workers reported practically one hundred percent response to all contacted thus far. Headquarters for the drive is the Barnhill dry cleaning establishment, where persons desiring to enroll as sustaining members may leave their subscriptions if not contacted.

Posters and pamphlets distributed by Scouts, in addition to a special Boy Scout film, now showing at the Cliftona Theatre, have been used locally to acquaint the general public unfamiliar with Scouting with this popular boys' work. Now, in its twenty-seventh year in this country, there are more than a million and a half boys registered as Scouts throughout the nation.

APPEALS COURT RULES IN FAVOR OF OHIO EDITOR

AKRON, June 5 — (UP) — An unanimous opinion of the ninth district court of appeals today had dismissed a contempt citation and $50 fine given Walter Morrow, editor of the Akron Times-Press, by Judge Walter B. Wanamaker. Morrow had appealed the contempt citation of Judge Wanamaker, who had banned publication of names of grand jurors, names of witnesses before the grand jury and cases under investigation. Morrow instructed his reporters to obtain the information banned and ordered its publication.

Judge C. G. Washburn wrote the appeals court opinion. Judges Perry Stevens and A. W. Doyle concurred. The opinion declared the secrecy order constituted "censorship" and that it prohibited "the exercise of rights freely exercised by individuals and newspapers, with question, for generations — rights supposed to be protected by the constitution and laws of the land."

"The publication themselves in no wise offended against the dignity of the court," the opinion read. "The only affront to the dignity of the court, if any, was the refusal of the respondent to submit to the censorship of the judge which was proclaimed in said order; and if the court had no power to make and order prohibiting, without his permission,

GHOST WATCHES DUKE AND WIFE

duke's 43rd. anniversary is June 23.

There was much interest in the village in the duchess's possible reaction to old Anna Neumann's portrait. Dukes are supposed to be used to ghosts. But Anna, represented by her portrait, is supposed to be a witch and to haunt the castle.

Her portrait shows her in life size, clad in gold, black haired, sharp nosed, with hard penetrating brown eyes, but nevertheless, beautiful.

Her father, Wilhelm, bought the castle in 1522 from an impoverished baronial family and Anna, his only child, was born there in 1533.

Surpassingly rich, beautiful, she married a son of a partizan family. He died tragically soon, leaving her a fortune. There was much sympathy with Anna. Sympathy waned and suspicion waxed as Anna married four additional husbands in turn. Each died young and each increased her fortune, which she augmented by lending money to great families usually at 200 percent profit. Her sixth husband she married at 82 and he was living still when she died six years later.

These two are united again as co-stars in an RKO Radio screen musical production, "Shall We Dance", in which their dance and song numbers are the bright, particular attraction, and which is further enriched by unusually attractive musical numbers contributed by George and Ira Gershwin.

moved from the strike area in an armored truck whose plates reached high enough to protect the officers from any possible violence as they crouched within it.

The mayor agreed not to call for sheriff's deputies again "regardless of what happens," he said.

A spokesman for Republic said today the corporation was "contemplating filing an action in connection with the stopping of mails."

Postoffice Refuses Food

Its officials have charged that cartons of food bound for non-strikers in its Warren and Niles, O., plants have been refused.

Today's clash occurred at a point where the only highway runs between Struthers and Campbell, both suburban mill centers.

Deputies blockaded with automobiles and men both sides of the tracks where they cross the road. They fired three charges of tear gas when pickets attempted to rush the line. The crowd scattered shortly.

Struthers police stood in the line with deputies but took no part in the gassing, the deputies said.

They said the track was melted by means of an acetylene torch mounted on a truck. They said an 18-inch strip of track was destroyed, making it impossible for passage until repaired.

S.W.O.C. leaders went into a council meeting, apparently to discuss the incident.

Agreement of Electric Companies is Recorded

Filing in the office of Mrs. Florence Campbell, recorder of Pickaway county, of a copy of the agreement to merge The Columbus Railway, Power and Light Company; The Southern Ohio Electric Company and The Adams County Power and Light Company marks the final step in the merger of these three companies into a single corporation to be known as Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. The agreement, effective last May 13, is being recorded in twenty Ohio counties in which the company operates.

The merger does not involve any new issue of stocks or bonds, since The Columbus Railway, Power and Light Company, for several years, had owned all the stocks of the other two companies.

The territory served by the former Southern Ohio and Adams County companies will be known hereafter as the Southern District of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. No changes in administrative policy, plan of operation, or employees are contemplated.

The lines of the merged company extend into 20 central and southern Ohio counties and secure energy from three large generating stations—Walnut in Franklin county, Picway in Pickaway county, and Floodwood in Athens county.

Miss Barnhart, the salutatorian, discussed "Living for Happiness," in which she discussed problems of idleness. She advocated interest in a hobby, and so did Miss Dresbach, the valedictorian. Miss Dresbach's subject was "The Master Key."

Jack E. Brown, the class orator, read Carl Sandburg's "The Sky-scraper," this being one of the highlights of the commencement program. The youth's voice and ability won him praise of many of the persons who heard him.

The awards to the various graduates were made by Principal E. E. Reger before he presented the class to Charles H. May, president of the board of education. Mr. May handed each graduate his or her diploma. The class song, written by Mary Ellen Maxey, closed the service. Invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. T. C. Harper, of the United Brethren church.

Music Provided, too

Music during the evening was provided by the high school orchestra, directed by C. F. Zaenglein, the senior girls' chorus and the boys' chorus, directed by Miss Marjorie Priest. Wahnta Barnhart accompanied the vocal numbers.

All the beautiful flowers that decorated the stage were taken from the garden of Mrs. James P. Moffitt, E. Franklin street.

Class officers were Jessie Dresbach, president; Millard Goode, vice president; Jean Lucas, secretary, and Raymond Adkins, treasurer. The class colors were blue and gold; the flower, the American Beauty rose, and the motto, "Row, don't Drift."

Graduates rating an average of 90 or better during their four years in high school were Jessie Dresbach, Wahnta Barnhart, Eleanor

34 MEN TAKEN OFF RELIEF FOR PRIVATE TASKS

During the last two weeks, 34 men have been released from W.P.A. lists to accept private employment in canning factories, on construction work, the Five Points road job, and farms.

Due to the large number leaving the W.P.A. rolls for private employment, it is believed the realignment of workers for June 15 will make no change in the local set-up. Throughout Ohio 15,000 workers were to be taken from the rolls. District officials estimated Pickaway county's share in the reduction would be about 25 persons.

In addition to the number of men released from W.P.A., 45 women employed on three projects were released to accept employment in a canning factory.

Reports in the National Reemployment office show that during the last two weeks 49 assignments of persons certified for W.P.A. work have been made. All were placed in private employment.

Joseph's Readiness for Service

Jacob loved his son Joseph more than any of his other sons, and gave him a coat of many colors. This and certain dreams Joseph related of his brethren bowing to him angered them greatly.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Genesis Chapters 37, 39, 40 and 41.

They first planned to kill Joseph. Then they decided to sell him as a slave to be taken to Egypt. They dipped Joseph's coat into blood and led their father to believe a beast had killed Joseph.

In Egypt Joseph became the slave of Potiphar, an officer. Tempted to sin by his master's wife, Joseph spurned her and she had him put into prison. (GOLDEN TEXT—Proverbs 22:29)

Joseph was released from prison to interpret certain dreams of Pharaoh, in which God warned Pharaoh in seven years of plenty to prepare for seven years of famine.

The Remaking of Jacob

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 6 is Genesis, chapters 37, 39, 40 and 41, especially 41:33-44, the Golden Text being Proverbs 22:29, "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings.")

JOSEPH IS the most Christ-like character of the Old Testament: both were beloved sons; both were hated of their brethren; both were miserably persecuted against by their brethren; both suffered wrongfully and were greatly humiliated and then highly exalted; both forgave their brethren their sins and poured out blessings upon them in return.

The Unspooled Son
That Joseph was ready to serve when God's time came to use him was due in large measure to the fact that Joseph was removed from the pampering influence of his father. Jacob should have remembered how his own father, Isaac, had favored Esau over himself, and therefore, should have resolved never to show such partiality among his own children. Instead, we read, "Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children because he was the son of his old age; and he made him a coat of many colors. And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him." Poor Joseph was in a bad spot between his father's inordinate pampering and his brothers' resultant jealousy.

Joseph in Egypt
After Joseph's brethren had sold their 17-year-old brother to a caravan of Ishmaelites en route to Egypt's slave market they planted a cruel deceit upon their aged father to induce him to conclude that Joseph had been killed by some wild animal: "And he knew prayer meeting following; Christian Endeavor, 7:30 p. m., preaching following. it and said, It is my son's coat; an evil beast hath devoured him; Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces. And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days." Thus by the deceit of his own sons was Jacob repaid for his deceiving of his father Isaac.

In Egypt Joseph became the slave of Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh. Far from succumbing to his degrading environment, though away from home and kindred, Joseph remained true to the ideals implanted in him by his home and religion. His reply to the seductive temptation of Potiphar's wife is unequalled as an example to those who "would be pure for the sake of those who care": "How can I do this great wickedness, and sin against God?" He went to prison for it, "but the Lord was with Joseph, and showed him mercy, and gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison."

The Dreamer Interprets Dreams
In prison Joseph achieved a reputation as an interpreter of dreams. So, when Pharaoh was troubled over his strange dream of seven lean cattle devouring the seven fat cattle, and the seven thin ears of corn devouring the seven good ears, Joseph was sent for to interpret the king's dreams. "It is not in me; God shall give Pharaoh an answer of peace," said the faithful Jew, now a young man of 30 years. Thus he gave God credit for the forecasting of the seven years of prosperity and the seven years of depression about to befall Egypt, and his plan for the conservation of the surplus of the years of plenty to provide for the failure of the lean years to follow. Joseph's service to the nation was rewarded with promotion, as a result of which Joseph later was able to save his father and the brethren who sold him into slavery.

Joseph's Readiness for Service

Jacob loved his son Joseph more than any of his other sons, and gave him a coat of many colors. This and certain dreams Joseph related of his brethren bowing to him angered them greatly.

Scripture—Genesis Chapters 37, 39, 40 and 41.

They first planned to kill Joseph. Then they decided to sell him as a slave to be taken to Egypt. They dipped Joseph's coat into blood and led their father to believe a beast had killed Joseph.

In Egypt Joseph became the slave of Potiphar, an officer. Tempted to sin by his master's wife, Joseph spurned her and she had him put into prison.

Joseph was released from prison to interpret certain dreams of Pharaoh, in which God warned Pharaoh in seven years of plenty to prepare for seven years of famine.

WHO JUDGES LAWS?

IT is a fairly safe bet that there never would have been any agitation to increase the size of the Supreme Court if the court had always observed the maxim laid down by Justice Cardozo in his opinion on the Social Security Act.

"Whether wisdom or unwisdom resides in the scheme of benefits set forth in Title II, it is not for us to say," said Justice Cardozo. "The answer to such inquiries must come from congress, not the courts."

An excellent rule, that. Demand for "reform" of the court arose principally because many people had become convinced that the court in fact did frequently rule on the wisdom or unwisdom of legislation rather than on its constitutionality. If Justice Cardozo's advice be followed, it is a safe bet that the demand for "reform" will dwindle to a gentle zephyr.

A RULE OF WAR

THE Italian government is going to adopt a new policy in naval construction, according to word from Rome.

Heretofore, Italian warships have been designed with speed and armament chiefly in mind. Cruising range has been considered unimportant, because it has been expected that Italian ships would always operate in the Mediterranean, close to their home bases.

Now, however, it is announced that the Italian navy is to be made "ocean-going," with long cruising capacity so that it can operate in the Atlantic, if need be, far from Italian shores.

This looks as if the Italian navy were to become an offensive weapon pure and simple. But the truth of the matter is that all armaments are inherently offensive, for the simple reason that a nation waging even a purely defensive war must take the offensive at times—as the Confederate States of America did when Lee invaded Pennsylvania. The shift in emphasis in Italian warship design merely recognizes that fundamental strategic fact.

NAZIS NEED GOOD-WILL

THE German government would be well-advised if it paid some attention to a warning voiced the other day by Prof. Friedrich Schoenemann of the University of Berlin, who feels that the state-controlled press is entirely too free with its blanket criticisms of America.

Recalling that the German press goes into a lather of abuse whenever an American says something derogatory to the Nazi government, Professor Schoenemann remarked:

"I think it is rather foolish and dangerous to indulge in wholesale criticism and

GOVERNMENT SHAKE-UP STALLS

WASHINGTON — If the President has been wondering why nothing has been done about his ambitious government reorganization bill, he can get a pretty good idea of the reason from what happened behind the closed doors of the last joint Senate and House committee meeting.

This group, named specially to consider the measure, dawdled around for more than three months doing nothing. Finally, under White House prodding, it met to decide on some course of action. An agreement was reached—to disagree.

The House member insisted that the President's plan be chopped up into four separate bills and submitted to the chambers in that form. They contended this would expedite consideration. The Senators opposed this, demanding that the legislation be concentrated in one measure as proposed by the President.

"Splitting this up into four bills," remarked Senate Leader Joe Robinson, head of the Senate committee, "will only further delay action. Of course, it probably doesn't matter, for I doubt if any reorganization legislation will get through this session. And that won't be a public calamity."

With these spirited words spurring them on, the two committees decided to part company and each go its way.

LION AND LAMB

Strange things are happening in the strife-ridden power industry.

In widely separated sections of the country, private and public power interests are peacefully getting together in mutually acceptable deals—a development almost as miraculous as the parable of the lion and the lamb. These are the transactions:

In Nebraska, negotiations have been completed under which three federally financed state power projects will take over virtually all the private utilities in the State, at a cost of between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000.

In Ponce, Puerto Rico, second largest city on the island, the municipal plant has bought out the competing private company.

And in Seattle, Wash., the municipal power and light plant, managed by SEC Commissioner J. D. Ross and one of the most successful of its kind, has acquired its private rival at a cost of $37,000,000.

These absorptions are history-making, but even more astounding is the fact that the Nebraska and Seattle purchases are being financed by Wall Street. The citadel of big business is lending the governments of Nebraska and Seattle the money to buy out private utility interests.

Government power executives are not acclaiming these events as the millennium, but they do regard them as significant straws in the wind of future power development.

denunciation of American civilization as a whole. We underestimated America once and lost both the World war and the peace that followed as a result."

Certainly the German press lately has done little to create good-will toward Germany in America. And good-will abroad happens to be rather important to the German people these days.

How Warming Up Process Improves Athletes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
AS A MATTER of experience, practically all athletes believe in the warming-up process before the actual game begins. At the ball park the pitchers are and less throwing the ball back and forth; the fielders are practicing, and the batters are trying out their arms and eyes. At tennis the practice of volleying a few balls back and forth over the net is accepted as a regular part of the game. The golfer takes a few practice swings and perhaps unlocks a few practice balls down the course.

The question that a physiologist naturally asks is whether there is any justification for this. It might be asked, with a muscle which was fresh and untired, which was suddenly called upon to do extra work, would it do better than one which had been moving around? But experimental work in the physiological laboratory makes the physiologist correct his empiric idea.

The warming-up process increases the activity of the muscle sense and stabilizes the nervous processes. It also augments the frequency and force of the contractions of the heart, thereby enhancing the circulation of the blood in the muscles. The whole body is improved and made more fit for quick action and decisions by the warming-up process. When you are stale from lack of exercise, you cannot do even the most moderate amount of exertion without symptoms of breathlessness.

Wind Easy to Improve
There is nothing that is easier to improve than the "wind." A regular stint of exercise, increased a little bit every day, will turn a man into about three times as efficient a machine as he was before. As a pitcher, or the tennis player, or golf player warms up, he breathes more rapidly and deeply, and the gases which are needed by the tissues are thrown into the circulation. Increased demands made on the heart find a response, and in a few minutes the circulation is prepared to respond to extraordinary demands.

The process of warming up also improves the reactions of the nervous system, the accuracy of the eye, and the sense of the body in space, and the exact strength that you are using with the tension of your muscles is far better after five or ten minutes of play than it is at first. As a matter of fact, it is the experience of most athletes that the first half hour of playing is their worst; that after that, when they have steadied down and the muscles and the nervous system will do with ease and accuracy anything that is demanded of them, they really begin to play their best game.

Love is for Tomorrow

By VIRGINIA SCALLON
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

ly, she handed over the last of the Char-Ming drawings and hoped the results would justify her efforts. She felt conscientiously that this was the best work she had done and hoped that it might result in greater opportunities outside the acre office.

With the exception of Ellen, everyone and everything connected with Acme had become distasteful. Somehow Abe was instilling new high pressure methods into the business, and she sensed an undercurrent of resentment even among the engravers and printers with whom they did business.

What was it that was causing so much ill feeling? Marcia had taken intense pride in the company, remembering the early days when she and Abe had developed an agency from one spinning little account to the point where it had received city-wide recognition for its clever campaigns. Now she seemed to be definitely outside the fold.

She and Ellen left the office promptly that night, and extravagantly took a taxi home. They relaxed and smoked while the car raced off the miles, and its radio whined plaintively. "All we need is a shower and a kitchen to make this 'Home Sweet Home,' Ellen said once, but elicited no response.

"Lucky for me I left a decent dress here for just such an emergency," Ellen said after dinner, as she slipped a colorful print over her head. "What's the new man like, Marcia?"

"Don't know, but if he's anything like Walt you'll probably have your hands full. By the way, don't leave me long tonight—I still can't say I trust that man."

"Then why go? You—"

There was a knock on the door, and Marcia hastened to open it. Walt stepped inside, followed by a fair-haired man whom she judged to be about 35. He carried himself with a sophisticated grace, his eyes betraying a tinge of boredom, but his quick smile was winning.

Marcia decided he was likable, though perhaps not too dependable. When Ellen came in from the bedroom, she was proud to present her to Tony Elliott, for she made a charming picture. The riotous colors of her print dress set fire to her rather pale face, gave her a look of dramatic interest. Wasting no time, the two men rushed them out to the car and began a mad dash toward Santa Monica.

"Where do we go?" Marcia asked, and was surprised to learn that they were heading for Malibu Beach, the exclusive ocean-side resort patronized by the screen stars and social elite.

"We're going to drop in on Lona von Brecht. You should know her; she's a woman, lots of money, lots of liquor, lots of fun. She's pouring a party for Lilli Bronte, the newest find of the movies. Seen her?"

In spite of herself, Marcia was interested for she had never met any of the cinema celebrities in a social way. Like a small girl, screen stars had a magical appeal for her, and she anticipated an evening of real entertainment.

(She was to realize later that Walt always had something unusual to offer in the way of "fun," but he had his own peculiar way of exacting repayment. Nothing crude about Walt, but he expected a reward for every gallantry.)

As they turned into the wide Germany, and you don't need to know your history to realize that wasn't Wednesday a week ago.

Now, at long last, Yawn plans to dispose of his Model Z. He dries his tears with the thought that it is proper and fitting his old car be converted into a siege gun or something else warlike. It's scrap iron now and—when the foreign warlords get through with it—it will again be "scrap iron."

Some folk are surprised at Adolf Hitler getting so because Cardinal Mundelein referred to him as a paperhanger. They think the paperhangers should have been the ones to get angry.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about at an early hour, finding the dawn period pleasant. Idled about the back yard and then by wagon to the post, finding it practically deserted. About the paves, much improved due to WPA. There goes Irv Kinsey, tanned as the Indians he once knew so well in the cow lands of Montana. Spent too much hatless time aiding the landscapers in his yard. And here comes Bish Given, who his first time out with a fly rod did hook a ten pound carp. Never knew before that carp would take a fly.

Chatted with Elliot, Voll who once attended the horse races up Columbus way and bought a ticket on Out Out. The race was close and finally the announcer shouted. "The winner, ladies and gentlemen is We We." "And I had to have my money on Oi Oi," Elliot said sorrowfully. Pickaway county's first automobile was sold for a song at the public sale of the estate of Rose Barthelmas this week. It is a Dayton with huggy wheels and solid rubber tires and its two cylinder motor still runs. Bob Elisea bought it for $35.

Here comes George Grand Girard whose father, Emil, was born 121 years ago this very day, and served as a Presbyterian minister for 44 years. George came here from Kingston, where his father lived, 59 years ago. Came to start a drug store, and he still operates a drug store. Met him as he strolled out to buy a Coca Cola.

Ed Ebert slipped through the side door and obtained the first free cone of the day at Isaly's opening. And what an opening for the youngsters. Entrance to the Third National bank was blocked by parked bicycles, not that I have any business in a bank. Here an eight year old boy crying because he could not push through the crowd and there a twelve-year-old boasting "I've had six already." Joe Pence declared he had eaten ten "and I don't think I care for any more right now." A fine store, that new one.

In the early afternoon to the Corvin street school to watch reaction of boys and girls on the closing day. Out they came, crying "I passed," and the scrivener saw not an unhappy face. Chatted with Lawrence Goeller, the manufacturer, and was much interested in samples of cloth made from spun glass. Looks like cloth and feels like cloth. So, expect glass curtains and table cloths soon. Maybe swimming suits, too, in a short time if the modern trend continues.

Congratulations to Frank Fischer on his salary boost. He earns it and deserves it. And congratulations to those fine boys and girls who will be graduated from high school this evening. Real talent there and higher than average ambition. Chatted with Nate Groban, head of the Retail Merchants Association, and learned that plans are under way for a great fireworks display in the ville on Saturday night before the Fourth. Did suggest that the punk be applied not later than 10:30 so that the red and green fire may be seen by the children, who at most displays I have seen were asleep long before the first boom, which generally comes after midnight. Daylight fireworks are also being considered in addition to the night kind.

Kind hearts are the gardens. Kind thoughts are the roots. Kind words are the blossoms. Kind deeds are the fruits. Love is the sweet sunshine. That warms into life. For only in darkness Grow hatred and strife.

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy and Marcia had met quite by accident near the home of the girl's grandmother in southern California. He is an advertising executive who has just established his own firm and she is a talented commercial artist employed by a rival firm in Los Angeles. After a week they fall in love. When Marcia shows so much enthusiasm for her work that Sandy feels her love for him is secondary, they part in a huff and return separately to Los Angeles. Led to believe she is to be taken into Abe Zimmerman's firm, Marcia is disappointed when she finds that one Walt Hartley has become the new partner during her vacation. Sandy becomes furious when he learns Marcia is working on the same account on which he has pinned high hopes. Marcia's firm wins the coveted account but she feels badly because of Sandy's loss and goes to see him. At odds with Sandy again, Marcia accepts a night club invitation from Hartley, whom she mistakes for Sandy, and arranges to obtain Ellen Sanders, a rival of the office, for a friend of his, Tony Elliott.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 13

"NOW I'VE done it," Marcia told herself a minute later, when Walter Hartley had left to plan the party for that night. She realized she had taken one more step to separate her from Sandy, recalling his threatening remarks about "another man" when they sat on the hillside at La Cresta. "Well," she figured, obstinately, "if he doesn't want me, there are those as do. And besides, there's Ellen."

So thinking, she jumped up and rushed out of her glass enclosed compartment in search of Ellen. Marcia looked about her in amazement as if she'd never seen the office. There had been a day, not so long ago, when the main items in the big room had been Abe's massive desk and the boastful gold letters on every window and on the door: "ACME ADVERTISING SERVICE, A. B. Zimmerman, Pres."

Now the walls were cluttered with framed ads and pictures; scrapbooks bulging with clippings and proofs lined the side counter. Two small desks had been crowded into one corner to make room for temporary help, and file cabinets seemed to multiply like rabbits. Now Abe had taken refuge in a private office, and Walt had temporarily rented a room across the hall.

Ellen used Abe's old desk these days, and Marcia saw that it was covered with ledgers, bills, check sheets and a wicker file basket that Abe kept perennially filled. The phone jangled incessantly, and Ellen conferred published dates, issued new insertion orders, argued about bills in a gracious but assured manner. Abe flung staccato orders at her through the door, and she jumped up in answer before she saw Marcia beckon to her.

"What?" she asked hurriedly. "We're going out on a binge to-night, you and I—with Walt and a fancy friend of his. Is it all right?" she said, briefly.

"But Sandy?" Will you go?" Marcia waited nervously for an answer. "Yes or no?"

"Well, yes, but—" and before Ellen could say more Marcia turned back toward her own office. A day had never seemed so long. Marcia finished the final sketches for the engraver, and a heated discussion was necessary before she felt he understood the problems the job presented. She was anxious to lose none of the brilliance of tone, yet could not forfeit the soft shadows that lent richness. Limp-

ly, she handed over the last of the Char-Ming drawings and hoped the results would justify her efforts. She felt conscientiously that this was the best work she had done and hoped that it might result in greater opportunities outside the Acme office.

With the exception of Ellen, everyone and everything connected with Acme had become distasteful. Somehow Abe was instilling new high pressure methods into the business, and she sensed an undercurrent of resentment even among the engravers and printers with whom she did her business.

What was it that was causing so much ill feeling? Marcia had taken intense pride in the company, remembering the early days when she and Abe had developed an agency from one spindling little account to the point where it had received city-wide recognition for its clever campaigns. Now she seemed to be definitely outside the fold.

She and Ellen left the office promptly that night, and extravagantly took a taxi home. They relaxed and smoked while the cab raced off the miles, and its radio whined plaintively. "All we need is a shower and a kitchen to make this 'Home Sweet Home'." Ellen said once, but elicited no response.

"Lucky for me I left a decent dress here for just such an emergency," Ellen said after dinner, as she slipped a colorful print over her head. "What's the new man like, Marcia?"

"Then why go? You—"

There was a knock on the door, and Marcia hastened to open it. Walt stepped inside, followed by a fair-haired man whom she judged to be about 35. He carried himself with a sophisticated grace, his eyes betraying a tinge of boredom, but his quick smile was winning.

Marcia decided he was likable, though perhaps not too dependable. When Ellen came in from the bedroom, she was proud to present her to Tony Elliott, for she made a charming picture. The riotous colors of her print dress set fire to her rather pale face, gave her a look of dramatic interest. Wasting no time, the two men rushed her out to the car and began a mad dash toward Santa Monica.

"Where do we go?" Marcia asked, and was surprised to learn that they were heading for Malibu Beach, the exclusive ocean-side resort patronized by the screen stars and social elite.

"We're going to drop in on Lona von Brecht. You should know her; swell woman, lots of money, lots of liquor, lots of fun. She's pouring a party for Lilli Bronte, the newest find of the movies. Seen her?"

In spite of herself, Marcia was interested for she had never met any of the cinema celebrities in a social way. Like a small girl, screen stars had a magical appeal for her, and she anticipated an evening of real entertainment. (She was to realize later that Walt always had something unusual to offer in the way of "fun," but he had his own peculiar way of exacting repayment. Nothing crude about Walt, but he expected a reward for every gallantry.)

As they turned into the wide facade of a pink stucco mansion, Walt said casually, "This is the shack. All out."

Ellen seemed to have made good headway in getting acquainted with Tony, rather to Marcia's surprise. He had seemed too much of the playboy type to have any appeal to a woman of Ellen's seriousness.

From the driveway they could hear the strident sounds of the three-piece orchestra, and see occasional couples strolling on the porch. At the door they met Lona von Brecht, an effusive but lately-likable blonde in her late-thirties.

"Walt Hartley! I'm glad to see you—you didn't dream you'd ever get here. Did you bring some friends? Good." Cordially she acknowledged the introductions, then waved them to a convenient bar. "Go in and warm up, then come back and meet people," she commanded. Her casual acceptance of four uninvited guests amazed Marcia.

The carefree throng of well-groomed men and women was a heady thrill for both girls. Although simply dressed themselves, they did not feel out of place for Hollywood has a strange manner of condoning any type of garb for any occasion. There were men in tuxedos, in white flannels, and one even in riding clothes; while the women wore formal or slacks with equal disregard.

A toast all around, and they joined the crowd which grew more hilarious as midnight approached. Marcia danced until her head spun and fended off the advances of Walt with growing difficulty. She watched with disgust as the much-vaunted Lilli Bronte flirted outrageously with every man within reach, and became louder and less attractive with each successive drink. By 2 o'clock Marcia was desperately tired and she slipped alone onto the balcony to get a breath of fresh air.

In a dark corner she almost stumbled upon a young girl whom she recognized as Paula Stoddard, a young art student.

"Two cigar artists in the dark," Marcia purred rather badly on the song the orchestra was playing at the moment. "What are you doing here?"

"I just couldn't stand it inside, the noise and the crowd and the crazy women. What makes them be so stupid when they drink? I wish I'd never come, I don't belong here." She was getting almost hysterical with fatigue and disgust, when Marcia tried to calm her. She turned the subject to art, the only other thing she felt she had in common with this rather colorless young girl. Paula confessed an intense interest in commercial art, but had a pitiful ignorance of how to start.

"What you need is practical experience," Marcia said, repeating the off-heard formula for success. "Why don't you make the rounds of advertising agencies?"

"But where?" the girl said helplessly.

"Well, there's Andrew Knight's new office—" and then could have bitten her tongue. Why should she deliberately send another woman, however unattractive, to him? But Paula's alert ears had caught the name, and in her mind already was trying to force an entry into the life and heart of Andrew Knight.

Ex-Countian Reaches 99; Old Saw-Mill Recalled

Edward Cummins Born In
Log Cabin On Farm

Edward Cummins, whose picture appeared recently in the Columbus dailies, giving his age as 99 years, is an uncle of our Sidner Cummins.

Edward was born in a log cabin about 1/2 mile west of where Charles Glick now lives and what was known as the John Spindler water-power saw mill on Walnut creek, 50 years ago.

The saw in this mill was about nine inches in width and six or seven feet in length and stood vertical with an up-and-down movement when being driven through a log. It took quite a while to saw once through a log but time then was not as important and swift as now and the old "muley saw" as it was then known, was plenty good enough and answered every purpose.

AT THE CIRCLE

"One Rainy Afternoon," the first offering of Pickford-Lasky Productions, the new producing company headed by Mary Pickford and Jesse Lasky, comes to the Circle Theatre for two days beginning Sunday.

Francis Lederer sings for the first time on the screen as the star of this sophisticated Parisian romantic comedy, and Ida Lupino,
Hugh Herbert, Roland Young, Erik Rhodes and Joseph Cawthorn are seen in important featured roles.

The story, which Stephen Morehouse Avery adapted from the French comedy, "Monsieur Martin," depicts the series of hilarious developments that ensue when Philippe Martin, a struggling young Paris actor, (Lederer) kisses the wrong girl (Ida Lupino) in a darkened movie theatre "One Rainy Afternoon."

AT THE GRAND

The films write a page of current history in "Black Legion," a thrilling melodrama produced by Warner Bros., which will open at the Grand Theatre Sunday.

Recently, in Michigan, a band of masked and hooded men took the law in their own hands and killed their chosen enemies without semblance of justice or mercy.
Newspaper accounts of its activities shocked the law-abiding elements of the entire country.
Outraged opinion demanded swift justice and got it. Confessional testimony of the chief suspect brought out incredible ruthlessness on the part of the night riders.

On the mere rumor that a man had beaten his wife, the man was killed. That the rumor was without the least foundation made this lawless execution the more horrible.

Ex-Countian Reaches 99; Old Saw-Mill Recalled

Edward Cummins Born in
Log Cabin On Farm
in Walnut Township

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Edward Cummins, whose picture appeared recently in the Columbus dailies, giving his age as 99 years, is an uncle of our Sidner Cummins.

Edward was born in a log cabin about 1/4 mile west of where Charles Glick now lives and what was known as the John Spindler water-power saw mill on Walnut creek, 50 years ago.

The saw in this mill was about nine inches in width and six or seven feet in length and stood vertical with an up-and-down motion when being driven through a log. It took quite a while to saw once through a log but time then was not as important and swift as now and the old "muley saw" as it was then known, was plenty good enough and answered every purpose.

The sign board at South Bloomfield, showing the number 23 traffic, where Ashville is, with a "welcome" invitation, is to be refinished and made to show its best.

Mrs. Robert Gearhart, of N. Court street, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoker and family, of Bexley.

had done a good job of it, and if your friends weren't some proud of you they ought to be. One of our Ashville boys for the last four years has been a member of a class of youngsters studying how to pull (extract if you prefer) all your teeth without it hurting a bit. He is finishing his work now in a few days with that hard and well earned diploma which gives him a legal right to work on you. But who? M. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Ward. But some of the kiddies are already beginning to worry about who their new teacher is going to be. We did not say a word about anybody getting married, and don't say we did.

Mrs. Squire Home
Mrs. Flora Squire arrived home from the South, having made made her home at Sarasota for the last few years. She is now at the home of her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder. Mrs. Squire is eighty years of age.

Pastor is Visitor
Rev. John Taylor, of Columbus, stopped off here yesterday for a short visit. Said his church (Methodist) is located at East Main street and Fairwood avenue. Has a membership of 600 and is kept busy busy.

Former Resident Visits
Met one of the former Ashville boys this morning in the person of Lawrence O'Connor. Said he had been in the Capital City for 23 years, eight of which were spent with the Scioto Valley traction line as conductor. He is now with the Hamilton Milk Co., in the sales department. Asked him about his brother Leo. Said he had been in Columbus for 20 years and was now record clerk at the police station. Said, of course, he was not positively sure about it, but in case any of these Ashville friends of his were "taken below" for traffic violations or anything, felt sure Leo could get 'em out pretty soon after they had paid their fines. "Don't say much about this," he said "because it's kinda confidential information to our many old friends in Ashville."

Ashville in Limelight
Just too bad, a couple of the Ashville boys stole the whole show at Circleville Thursday night but unfortunately were not there to carry it away.

Attend Funeral
Of those attending the funeral of Clifford Jinks from a distance were Roy Zust and Mrs. George Schreiber of Hammond, Ind., and Mrs. Lulu Zust and Mrs. Lottie Whistler of LaFayette, Ind.

A terpsichorean romance between a famous ballet dancer and an international revue artist forms the theme of "Shall We Dance," latest of the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers musical co-starring films for RKO Radio which opens at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday for a four day run.

Featuring some of the most spectacular dances the two favorites have ever presented and sparkling with tunes written by George and Ira Gershwin, the new film is said to be the tuneful triumph of the year. Harriet Hoctor, famous ballerina, appears in two of the unique dance numbers, and Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore and other favorites are in the featured cast. Mark Sandrich

DIZZY TO PITCH AGAINST PHILLIES; FRICK BREACH REMAINS VERY WIDE

REST OF THREE DAYS COSTS BIG HURLER $487.20

Future Trouble Feared

MAY 6 QUOTE RECALLED

League Official Angered Wife
Of Cardinal

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, St. Louis Cardinals' stormy pitcher, was back in good standing and scheduled to pitch today against the Phillies.

Although Ford Frick, president of the National league, lifted Dean's three-day suspension that cost him $487.20 in pay, he warned Manager Frankie Frisch: "Keep that guy quiet or we'll have to go through this thing all over again."

And in a statement under his name Frick said: "So far as what has gone before, the case is closed. So far as what may occur in the future, time alone can tell. Certainly this office does not propose to have the name of the National league, its officials or employees dragged through the newspapers in uncomplimentary manner hereafter."

Breach Widened
There was definite evidence of a widening of the breach between Dean and Frick. During the last wrangle it was evident that the Cardinal officials have little control over Dizzy. Sam Breadon, owner of the club, advised him to sign the statement prepared by Frick, but he refused. Frisch could do little with the truculent Dean. Clarence Lloyd, secretary, was so exasperated with Dizzy he lost his temper.

The difference between Frick and Dean goes back farther than the now-famous balk Dizzy made in the Giants' game at St. Louis and the Belleville, Ill., remarks by the pitcher. They go back to an item in the May 6 issue of the Sporting News, in which appeared the following:

"Among other comments by Frick, according to scribes, was a reference to Mrs. Dizzy Dean as a 'dominating personality.' These remarks supposedly were made by Frick in Buffalo, April 27.

The Cardinals were traveling from Boston to New York when Mrs. Dizzy Dean read the article. She called Dizzy Dean, and according to Ray Gillespie, of the St. Louis Star-Times, said:

"The first thing I want you to do when you get to New York is to go Ford Frick's office and punch him in the nose. If you don't you're yellow."

Dean and the St. Louis reporter laughed. Mrs. Dean turned to Gillespie who quoted her as saying to him:

"Don't you laugh. I mean it." Gillespie afterwards spoke to Dizzy about the incident, and he quotes Dizzy as saying:

"I'm a peaceful guy. Nobody hits me and I don't hit nobody."

"Didn't Sign Nothing"

After yesterday's three hour, and 20 minute session, in which Dean almost talked himself back into suspension after the ban was lifted, the loquacious pitcher left feeling that he had scored a victory.

"I won my point," he said. "I didn't sign nothing."

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Billy Herman who ran the Chicago Cubs' winning streak to eight games by singling home the victory run in the 11th, his fourth hit of the day.

INDIANS, CLOSE TO TOP, TANGLE WITH SENATORS

CLEVELAND, June 5.—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians, two full games out of first place, opened a four-game series with the Washington Senators here today. A double-header Sunday in the stadium will be the series feature.

Denny Galehouse, whose last few starts have been disastrous for Cleveland, was to attempt to shake off the bad luck against Washington today. He was expected to be opposed by Carl Fischer.

The Indians won from the league-leading Yankees 5 to 3 yesterday for the current series. John-today, giving the Redskins a 3 to 1 win. A former Yankee, who was the Cleveland pitcher and he kept the hits from coming in bundles.

It was Earl Averill, dependable Cleveland outfielder, who supplied much of the punch needed to beat the New Yorkers. He hit his fourth home run of the season, a double and a single. His homer in the sixth broke a 2-2 tie.

RALLY OF C.A.C. TEAM CUT SHORT BY YELLOWBUD

A final inning rally, in which they filled the bases with no one out, fell short Friday evening when the Circleville Athletic Club softball team lost a 7-8 game to the fast Yellowbuds.

The Ross county outfit had a neat lead going into the ninth, but the C.A.C. team had started to work on Pitcher Shaw's tosses. The rally was nipped, though, giving the Yellowbudders the victory.

Eve Merriman, playing shortstop for the Athletic club, clouted a circuit blow.

Purcell was the C.A.C. twirler.

ADMIRAL FACES POMPOON AGAIN IN STAKE RACE

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral, winner of the Kentucky derby and Preakness, was an odds-on favorite to win the 69th running of the $25,000 added Belmont Stakes today.

A field of seven select three year olds were entered in the mile and a half race. Chief opposition to War Admiral becoming the fourth horse in history to capture the derby, Preakness and Belmont, was Jerome H. Loucheim's Pom-poon, leading two year-olds of 1935 who forced the Admiral to a camera-eye finish in the Preakness.

Loucheim's Pom-poon, leading two year-olds of 1935 who forced the Admiral to a camera-eye finish in the Preakness.

Thursday, Outfielder George (Twinkleton) Selkirk pulled a leg muscle which probably will keep him out of the lineup for the endurance of the road trip. Latest loss was Spurgeon Chandler, rookie pitcher taking Pearson's regular turn on the mound. He twisted a shoulder muscle yesterday and went down to defeat, 5-3, before the Cleveland Indians. The loss cut the Yanks' American league lead down to two games over the Indians.

The Detroit Tigers put on a seven run spurge in the seventh to defeat the Washington Senators, 10-3, behind Tommy Bridges six hit pitching. Hank Greenberg hit his 13th homer. Boston at Chicago was rained out but the St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics staged a pair of 10-inning thriller. The Browns won the opener when Manager Rogers Hornsby singled, was sacrificed to second, and was singled home by Huffman in the 10th for a 7-6 decision. Jack Knott lost his own game when he walked three men after Rothrock had doubled in the 10th, to force home the winning counter in the Athletics' 4-3 nightcap.

Pirates Fall Again
In the National league the Boston Bees scored their second straight win over the leading Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-1, to trim the Bucs' margin to two games over the New York Giants who split a twin bill with the Chicago Cubs. Bill Herman's fourth hit, a single in the 11th drove in a run that gave the Cubs their eighth straight victory in the opener, 6-5, but Slick Castelman bested Bill Lee in a nightcap duel, the Giants winning 4-2.

The Cincinnati Reds crushed a ninth inning rally after two runs were in for their second straight triumph over Philadelphia, 9-8. The St. Louis Cardinals connected for 18 hits and smothered the Brooklyn Dodgers, 14-4.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Mickey Cochrane, recovering from a triple skull fracture, will be moved from St. Elizabeth's hospital here to Ford hospital in Detroit sometime this week-end.

The catcher-manager of the Detroit Tigers has shown a daily improvement since being struck with a pitched ball by Pitcher Bump Hadley of the New York Yankees, 10 days ago. He has regained much of his strength.

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRAUCHER

Grind Ax for Rajah

They are sharpening the ax in St. Louis for Rogers Hornsby, whose Browns seem to have sunk to a new low this year. . . . Prexy Don Barnes is said to have engaged in several battles with the Rajah during a recent road trip in which the Browns won two games and dropped 13. . . . Hornsby is reported to have refused to accede to Barnes' suggestion for betterment of the ball club, telling him that the club was being run by a man named Rogers Hornsby. . . . and that was that? The Rajah has a two-year contract with the Browns, calling for $20,000 a year, but President Barnes says the contract is such that it can be broken for 1938 if the Browns do not come up to expectations. . . . there are 900 stockholders in the new ownership, and most of those people are fans who want the club to win. . . . It looks bad for the old gent from Texas at this writing.

Fans Help Rusie

Fans have come to the aid of Amos Rusie, once great speed-ball pitcher, assuring him of a home and income after a mortgage on his home at Auburn, Wash. had been foreclosed and he had been left without funds. . . . Gifts to Rusie and his invalid wife assure them of a place in which to live and no financial worries for the rest of their lives. . . . A Seattle newspaper conducted a campaign for the couple, and was assisted materially by the Sporting News, national baseball publication. . . . Funds from the All-Star game treasury, which I understand now has about $200,000 to administer, were sent to relieve the pitcher's distress.

Just Some Notes

Spencer Abbott, Pacific Coast fire-eater, was let out as manager of the Seattle club because he was too harsh on the players. . . . Pitcher Clyde Hatter, sent to Toledo by Detroit, was fined $200 for breaking training rules after arrival with the Mud Hens. . . . Mad Hatter, huh? Cincinnati fans are groaning over the hard luck of the Reds. . . . It's the guess in this corner that the club still will pick up and go places. . . . the lads seem to have lost their spring confidence following a bunch of one-run defeats. . . . Ye New York scribes are sore at Will Terry again because they are barred from the clubhouse whenever anything important happens. . . . the writers have besought Prexy Stoneham to arrange a meeting with Terrible Terry in an effort to come to a more liberal understanding. . . . Incidentally, Bill wishes the writers would quit referring to Carl Hubbell as "Terry's meal ticket."

Choice of Names

Jim Bottomley, first baseman of the Browns, has a cow which he calls Filder's Choice. . . . Filder's Choice is anticipating a blessed event. . . . If male, the offspring will be named Beau Bell, after the Brownies' slugging outfielder. . . . That reminds me of Wiley Moore's mules. . . . he called one Babe and the other Ruth. . . .

SMITH AND HARRY COOPER IN LEAD IN TOLEDO MEET

TOLEDO, June 5.—(UP)—Horton Smith and Harry Cooper had a two-point lead as 16 of the nation's top golf professionals today went into the fourth round of the $4,600 Inverness best-ball tournament.

After setting a tournament record with a card of 61 in their second-round victory over Denny Shute and Lawson Little, the veteran stylists carded a 66 for a one-up third-round win over Sam Snead and Ralph Cudahl.

The standings, under the Inverness system, which counts holes won as plus and holes lost as minus, were:

Smith-Cooper, plus five; Snead-Guldahl, plus three; Tommy Armour and Jimmy Thomson, plus two; Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, plus one; Olin Dutra and Gene Sarazen, even; Shute-Little, minus three; Paul Runyan and Ky Laffoon, minus three; Ray Mangrum and Jimmy Hines, minus five.

Other third round matches yesterday saw Armour and Thomson down Picard and Revolta, two up; Runyan and Laffoon take a one-up win over Dutra and Sarazen; and Shute and Little score a two-up victory over Mangrum and Hines.

DIZZY TO PITCH AGAINST PHILLIES; FRICK BREACH REMAINS VERY WIDE

REST OF THREE DAYS COSTS BIG HURLER $487.20

Future Trouble Feared Despite President's Action Friday

MAY 6 QUOTE RECALLED

League Official Angered Wife Of Cardinal

NEW YORK, June 5—(UP)—Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, St. Louis Cardinals' stormy pitcher, was back in good standing and scheduled to pitch today against the Phillies.

Although Ford Frick, president of the National league, lifted Dean's three-day suspension that cost him $487.20 in pay, he warned Manager Frankie Frisch:

"Keep that big guy quiet or we'll have to go through this thing all over again."

And in a statement under his name Frick said: "So far as what has gone before, the case is closed. So far as what may occur in the future, time alone can tell. Certainly this office does not propose to have the name of the National league, its officials or employees dragged through the newspapers in uncompromising manner hereafter."

Breach Widened

There was definite evidence of a widening of the breach between Dean and Frick. During the last wrangle it was evident that the Cardinals officials have little control over Dizzy. Sam Breadon, owner of the club, advised him to sign the statement prepared by Frick, but he refused. Frisch could do little with the truculent Dean. Clarence Lloyd, secretary, was so exasperated with Dizzy he lost his temper.

The difference between Frick and Dean goes back farther than the now-famous balk Dizzy made in the Giants' game at St. Louis and the Belleville, Ill., remarks by the pitcher. They go back to an item in the May 6 issue of the Sporting News, in which appeared the following:

"Among other comments by Frick, according to scribes, was a reference to Mrs. Dizzy Dean as a 'dominating personality.'" These remarks supposedly were made by Frick in Buffalo, April 27.

The Cardinals were traveling from Boston to New York when Mrs. Dizzy Dean read the article. She called Dizzy Dean, and according to Ray Gillespie, of the St. Louis Star-Times, said:

"The first thing I want you to do when you get to New York is to go Ford Frick's office and punch him in the nose. If you don't you're yellow."

Dean and the St. Louis reporter laughed. Mrs. Dean turned to Gillespie who quoted her as saying to him:

"Don't you laugh. I mean it." Gillespie afterwards spoke to Dizzy about the incident, and he quotes Dizzy as saying:

"I'm a peaceful guy. Nobody hits me and I don't hit nobody."

"Didn't Sign Nothing"

After yesterday's three hour, and 20 minute session, in which Dean almost talked himself back into suspension after the ban was lifted, the loquacious pitcher left feeling that he had scored a victory.

"I won my point," he said. "I didn't sign nothing."

JOE MOORE HURT

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Joe Moore, New York Giant outfielder, suffered a slight concussion from being hit by a ball pitched by Larry French of the Chicago Cubs yesterday. At Polytechnic hospital his condition was reported as "fair." X-rays showed no evidence of a fracture, and the injury was not believed serious.

INDIANS, CLOSE TO TOP, TANGLE WITH SENATORS

CLEVELAND, June 5.—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians, two full games out of first place, opened a four-game series with the Washington Senators here today. A double-header Sunday in the stadium will be the series feature.

Denny Galehouse, whose last few starts have been disastrous for Cleveland, was to attempt to shake off the bad luck against Washington today. He was expected to be opposed by Carl Fischer.

The Indians won from the league-leading Yankees 5 to 3 yesterday for the current series. John Tudge, giving the Redskins a 3 to 1 win, a former Yankee, was the Cleveland pitcher and he kept the hits from coming in bundles.

It was Earl Averill, dependable Cleveland outfielder, who supplied much of the punch needed to beat the New Yorkers. He hit his fourth home run of the season, a double and a single. His homer in the sixth broke a 2-2 tie.

RALLY OF C.A.C. TEAM CUT SHORT BY YELLOWBUD

A final inning rally, in which they filled the bases with no one out, fell short Friday evening when the Circleville Athletic Club softball team lost a 7-8 game to the fast Yellowbuds crew.

The Ross county outfit had a neat lead going into the ninth fray, but the C.A.C. team had started to work on Pitcher Shaw's tosses. The rally was nipped, though, giving the Yellowbudders the victory.

Eve Merriman, playing shortstop for the Athletic club, clouted a circuit blow.

Purcell was the C.A.C. twirler.

ADMIRAL FACES POMPOON AGAIN IN STAKE RACE

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral, winner of the Kentucky derby and Preakness, was an odds-on favorite to win the 69th running of the $25,000 added Belmont Stakes today.

A field of seven select three year olds were entered in the mile and a half race. Chief opposition to War Admiral becoming the fourth horse in history to capture the derby, Preakness and Belmont, was Jerome H. Loucheim's Pompoon, leading two year-olds of 1935 who forced the Admiral to a camera-eye finish in the Preakness.

COCHRANE TO BE PLACED IN HOSPITAL IN DETROIT

NEW YORK, June 5.—(UP)—Mickey Cochrane, recovering from a triple skull fracture, will be moved from St. Elizabeth's hospital here to Ford hospital in Detroit sometime this week-end.

The catcher-manager of the Detroit Tigers has shown a daily improvement since being struck with a pitched ball by Pitcher Bump Hadley of the New York Yankees, 10 days ago. He has regained much of his strength.

About This And That In Many Sports

By BILL BRAUCHER

Grind Ax for Rajah

They are sharpening the ax in St. Louis for Rogers Hornsby, whose Browns seem to have sunk to a new low this year. . . . Prexy Don Barnes is said to have engaged in several battles with the Rajah during a recent road trip in which the Browns won two games and dropped 13. . . . Hornsby is reported to have refused to accede to Barnes' suggestion for betterment of the ball club, telling him that the club was being run by a man named Rogers Hornsby. . . . and that was that? The Rajah has a two-year contract with the Browns, calling for $20,000 a year, but President Barnes says the contract is such that it can be broken for 1938 if the Browns do not come up to expectations. . . . there are 900 stockholders in the new ownership, and most of those people are fans who want the club to win. . . . It looks bad for the old gent from Texas at this writing.

Fans Help Rusie

Fans have come to the aid of Amos Rusie, once great speedball pitcher, assuring him of a home and income after a mortgage on his home at Auburn, Wash. had been foreclosed and he had been left without funds. . . . Gifts to Rusie and his invalid wife assure them of a place in which to live and no financial worries for the rest of their lives. . . . A Seattle newspaper conducted a campaign for the couple, and was assisted materially by the Sporting News, national baseball publication. . . . Funds from the All-Star game treasury, which I understand now has about $200,000 to administer, were sent to relieve the pitcher's distress.

Just Some Notes

Spencer Abbott, Pacific Coast fire-eater, was let out as manager of the Seattle club because he was too harsh on the players. . . . Pitcher Clyde Hatter, sent to Toledo by Detroit, was fined $200 for breaking training rules after arrival with the Mud Hens. . . . Mad Hatter, huh? . . . Cincinnati fans are groaning over the hard luck of the Reds. . . . it's the guess in this corner that the club still will pick up and go places. . . . the lads seem to have lost their spring confidence following a bunch of one-run defeats. . . . Ye New York scribers are sore at Will Terry again because they are barred from the clubhouse whenever anything important happens. . . . the writers have besought Prexy Stoneham to arrange a meeting with Terrible Terry in an effort to come to a more liberal understanding. . . . incidentally, Bill wishes the writers would quit referring to Carl Hubbell as "Terry's meal ticket."

Choice of Names

Jim Bottomley, first baseman of the Browns, has a cow which he calls Filder's Choice. . . . Filder's Choice is anticipating a fielder's event. . . . If male, the offspring will be named Beau Bell, after the Brownies' slugging outfielder. . . . That reminds me of Wiley Moore's mules. . . . he called one Babe and the other Ruth. . . .

SMITH AND HARRY COOPER IN LEAD IN TOLEDO MEET

TOLEDO, June 5.—(UP)—Horton Smith and Harry Cooper had a two-point lead as 16 of the nation's top golf professionals today went into the fourth round of the $4,600 Inverness best-ball tournament.

After setting a tournament record with a card of 61 in their second-round victory over Denny Shute and Lawson Little, the veteran stylists carded a 66 for a one-up third-round win over Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl.

The standings, under the Inverness system, which counts holes won as plus and holes lost as minus, were:

Smith-Cooper, plus five; Snead-Guldahl, plus three; Tommy Armour and Jimmy Thomson, plus two; Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, plus one; Olin Dutra and Gene Sarazen, even; Shute-Little, minus three; Paul Runyan and Ky Laffoon, minus three; Ray Mangrum and Jimmy Hines, minus five.

Other third round matches yesterday saw Armour and Thomson down Picard and Revolta, two up; Runyan and Laffoon take a one-up win over Dutra and Sarazen; and Shute and Little score a two-up victory over Mangrum and Hines.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)
Here, East's third hand bid of 1-Heart was overcalled with 1-
Spade, then 2-Diamonds by West,
3-Clubs by East, 3-Spades in the South and a business double by West. Offhand, declarer cannot very well help losing one trick in spades, two in hearts and one each in the minors, which would put him down one, but he made the contract, plus an overtrick, by taking advantage of every break that came his way.

Stuyvesant Wainwright, of the Racquet & Tennis Club, New York, was the declarer. Misfortune number one for the opponents was the lead of the heart Q, which the K was allowed to win. Mr. Wainwright immediately led the spade 2, to tempt West to duck, which he did, and the nine won. Three top spades now shut West out of any spade trick at all. The heart 2 to the J forced the Ace. East then used his diamond K to force out the dummy's Ace, and a diamond return was won by the J. West next leading his Q, which was trumped in the closed hand.

Mr. Wainwright then led the last spade to give the opponents a chance to discard wrong, a play he wouldn't have attempted except when they seemed to be "on the run". Had East discarded his club Ace on this, West could have won the next trick and then cashed a diamond, but he held on to the Ace, so had to win the club which was next led and then pitch from his heart 9-6 into the declarer's 10-8.

FEDERAL HOUSING LOANS SHOW 160 PER CENT ADVANCE IN FOUR MONTHS

Heat, Money Saved by Proper Insulation of Hot Water Pipe

Whenever an automatic gas or electric domestic hot-water heater is used it should be remembered that all hot water plumbing lines are a source of heat loss, and a major one, because of the considerable amount of pipe surface exposed to the air as compared to the volume of heated water in the pipes.

For this reason, just as it is important that the storage tank be insulated, it is also important that wherever space will permit, the hot-water lines be insulated with any of the several good insulation materials now available on the market. It is probable that the insulation of hot-water lines will do as much to make the operation of the water heater economical as will the insulation placed around the storage tank by the manufacturer or the installer.

Proper installation of hot-water heating insulation is provided for when a home is built to meet the specifications required under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

HALL BOOKSHELVES HAVE DUAL PURPOSE

Bookshelves may be built in a hall for the double purpose of offering additional storage space for the volumes and to create an inviting entrance to the home. A long, narrow hall is particularly adaptable to this treatment.

Such an arrangement of bookshelves may be planned when a home is built under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

District's Business Increases

In a statistical report just released by A. L. Guekert, director of the Columbus district of the Federal Housing Administration, which comprises 43 counties of the central and southeastern section of Ohio, applicants (with fees paid) for insured loans during the first four months of 1937 show a gain of 160 per cent over the corresponding period of 1936.

Analysis of this striking advance in own-your-own-home activity reveals that during the 1937 period ending April 30, a total of 973 applicants were received in the amount of $3,981,000, of which number 215 were for new homes, and 758 for either the purchase of existing properties or the refinancing of old mortgages. By comparison, during the first four months of 1936 a total of 374 applications were received in the sum of $1,395,311, of which number 55 were for new homes, and 319 for purposes of purchasing or refinancing.

Summary Shown
A summary of figures shows an increase of 599 in the number of borrowers for the first four months of 1937, as compared to the corresponding period for 1936. The monetary increase was $2,585,689.

With reference to the report and the commendable showing therein indicated, Mr. Guekert said: "There can be no doubt that this increased business reflects the growing popularity of the Federal Housing plan. Its relative advantages are becoming more generally understood and appreciated. This is especially true with regard to persons in the low income group who heretofore have been denied the stable, satisfying status of home ownership chiefly because of mortgage contracts which were beyond their means of repayment."

Applications for Federal Housing loans are made direct to the financial institutions in each locality. The Government does not lend the money; but it insures the mortgage once the loan is approved by both the lending institution and the F. H. A. The money is loaned by and is repayable to the bank, loan company, or other lending institutions in each city or town. Under the F. H. A. plan the applicant may build, buy, or refinance existing mortgages in any amount not to exceed $16,000, provided the property is well situated and otherwise acceptable. Loans are repayable over a period up to 20 years. Monthly repayments include not only principal and interest, but taxes and hazard insurance as well.

SMALL CLOSET FOR DRYING OF LINGERIE

A small closet with a heating unit in it, just off the bathroom, provides a drying place for stockings and lingerie and avoids the necessity of having the towel racks in the bathroom cluttered with laundry. Provisions for such a space may be made when a new home is being built under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

Questions and Answers

Q Is indoor paint suitable for exterior use?

A. Outdoor paint can be used anywhere, but paints intended for indoor use should not be exposed either to weather or to air that is continuously moist. Paint for use outdoors must have qualities suited to exposure. It should have elasticity, that quality which allows it to expand and contract with extremes of temperature; also tightness which causes it to hold to its base and be proof against hard-driven rain toughness to stand the beating of sleet storms and other severe exposures.

Q I would like a frosted or obscure glass effect on one of my windows. How can this be done without replacing the present glass?

A. Clean the glass with alcohol; cut out a sheet of tissue paper of the desired color to fit the glass and apply a spar varnish thinned with a quarter as much turpentine. This will penetrate the paper and stick it to the glass as well as make the paper water resistant.

Q Water is seeping through our cellar windows. It seems to come from the areas outside. What can we do about this?

A. The water probably comes up through the bottom of the areas. Put a concrete floor in the areas about 8 inches below the sill and pipe the collecting water to a dry well, which should be located at least 8 feet from the house.

Q Our garage is not connected with our house, but is a short walk from the service entrance. This is inconvenient in rainy weather. Do you think it would be practical to attempt to tear down the present structure and build a connecting one? Our house is of white frame construction.

A. If the present garage is in good condition, it would not be advisable to tear it down and build another. At less cost and with a possible pleasing effect a covered or enclosed passage could be built between your service entrance and the garage.

Q What are the fundamentals of good practice in the installation of water piping?

A. Good practice dictates that: (1) All piping should be carefully sized; (2) branches should be as short as possible; (3) piping should be sloped for easy drainage, and drain cocks should be provided in accessible locations; (4) any lines in outside walls should be adequately insulated against freezing; (5) fixture groups should be provided with cut-off valves; (6) where water pressure in the mains exceed 40 pounds per square inch a pressure-reducing valve should be installed; (7) the hot-water storage tank should have a minimum capacity of 40 gallons; (8) parallel hot- and cold-water lines should be separated at least 6 inches.

PROPER INSTALLATION PREVENTS CORROSION

According to Real Estate and Building Management, corrosion destroys steel, cast iron, wrought iron, and alloys to the amount of $100,000,000 annually in the United States. Annual replacement exceeds $27,000,000. Moisture, gases, and chemicals hasten corrosion, and electrolysis is a large factor. Buried pipes show largest deterioration, especially where covered by soil. Protective methods are valuable and should be used as extensively as possible.

In constructing homes this important matter should be borne in mind and necessary measures taken to give adequate protection to the piping and other metals used.

SCREEN DOORS MATCH HOME ARCHITECTURE

Screen doors need not be prosaic. Modern design has affected even this utilitarian feature, and doors may be found to suit the English, Colonial, Spanish, French, or modern homes.

An all-over grille made up of small square wood bars, could be used to gain a play of light and shade. Louvered shutters, with screens on the inner side, give absolute privacy but interfere little with the circulation of air.

MODERN BATH HAS DRESSING ALCOVE

In building the modern home there is a tendency to increase the size of bathrooms to include sufficient space for dressing. The modern housewife, while wishing to enlarge the bathroom, insists upon decreasing the size of the kitchen, making it just large enough to hold all the latest mechanical equipment. The Federal Housing Administration insures mortgages for home financing.

Modern Simplicity

THE architecture, decoration, and furnishing of this room combine to give an air of spaciousness. An interesting feature is the one white paneled wall, after the manner of old Colonial houses. The room is in a modern home designed to meet the requirements of present-day living. Such homes may be financed under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

SOLID GROUND KEEPS CONCRETE STEPS FIRM

If concrete or masonry steps are to be installed, be sure the ground on which they are to be placed is solid and not recent fill. Filled ground settles over a long period, and the steps will settle with it.

PULL-OUT SHELVES HANDY FOR LINENS

Pull-out shelves are a great convenience in the linen closet. Towels, table linen, and pillow cases may be located without disturbing the neatness of the place. Provisions for a linen closet of this type may be made when a home is financed under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

GLASS PANEL
A modern bathroom has the tub set in an arched recess backed by a panel of structural glass. The effect is a light room with utter privacy. Bathrooms of this type may be built in homes financed by a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

When a small bathroom makes it difficult to open the door without knocking into fixtures, a door divided into two and hinged like a screen might relieve the congestion.

CELLAR STAIRS NEED SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Special consideration should be given to cellar stairs. Too frequently these steps are constructed in a careless manner, despite the fact that they probably bear more heavy loads than other stairs in the house.

While cellar stairs need not be as well finished as the main stairs, they should be given as much consideration as far as safety and use are concerned. A railing should be provided, and there should be adequate head room. The rise should not be more than eight inches, and the tread should be wide enough for a foot to be set down firmly.

All houses financed under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration are carefully checked on all points of construction.

WATER RESISTANT MATERIALS USEFUL

Materials with water-resisting qualities are particularly adaptable for bathrooms. Linoleum, waterproof wallpaper, asbestos wall-scooting, asphalt-tile flooring, metal tile, ceramic and glass tile can be used to advantage. These materials are acceptable in new homes built under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

Use Less Paint

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT costs less per square foot of surface painted and outlasts ordinary paints—both of these merits are due to its high quality. Some low-grade paints analyzed by recognized laboratories were found to contain 63% of water and other evaporating liquids. This left only 37% of film-forming solids to protect the surface. Lowe Brothers High Standard House Paint contains 90% of protective film-forming solids. Be sure of better results and more pleasing effects before you paint. ## Heat, Money Saved by Proper Insulation of Hot Water Pipe

Whenever an automatic gas or electric domestic hot-water heater is used it should be remembered that all hot water plumbing lines are a source of heat loss, and a major one, because of the considerable amount of pipe surface exposed to the air as compared to the volume of heated water in the pipes.

For this reason, just as it is important that the storage tank be insulated, it is also important that wherever space will permit, the hot-water lines be insulated with any of the several good insulation materials now available on the market. It is probable that the insulation of hot-water lines will do as much to make the operation of the water heater economical as will the insulation placed around the storage tank by the manufacturer or the installer.

Proper installation of hot-water heating insulation is provided for when a home is built to meet the specifications required under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

HALL BOOKSHELVES HAVE DUAL PURPOSE

Bookshelves may be built in a hall for the double purpose of offering additional storage space for the volumes and to create an inviting entrance to the home. A long, narrow hall is particularly adaptable to this treatment.

Such an arrangement of bookshelves may be planned when a home is built under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

District's Business Increases

In a statistical report just released by A. L. Guekert, director of the Columbus district of the Federal Housing Administration, which comprises 43 counties of the central and southeastern section of Ohio, applicants (with fees paid) for insured loans during the first four months of 1937 show a gain of 160 percent over the corresponding period of 1936.

Analysis of this striking advance in own-your-own-home activity reveals that during the 1937 period ending April 30, a total of 973 applicants were received in the amount of $3,981,000, of which number 215 were for new homes, and 758 for either the purchase of existing properties or the refinancing of old mortgages. By comparison, during the first four months of 1936 a total of 374 applications were received in the sum of $1,395,311, of which number 55 were for new homes, and 319 for purposes of purchasing or refinancing.

Summary Shown
A summary of figures shows an increase of 599 in the number of borrowers for the first four months of 1937, as compared to the corresponding period for 1936. The monetary increase was $2,585,689.

With reference to the report and the commendable showing therein indicated, Mr. Guekert said: "There can be no doubt that this increased business reflects the growing popularity of the Federal Housing plan. Its relative advantages are becoming more generally understood and appreciated. This is especially true with regard to persons in the low income group who heretofore have been denied the stable, satisfying status of home ownership chiefly because of mortgage contracts which were beyond their means of repayment."

Applications for Federal Housing loans are made direct to the financial institutions in each locality. The Government does not lend the money; but it insures the mortgage once the loan is approved by both the lending institution and the F. H. A. The money is loaned by and is repayable to the bank, loan company, or other lending institutions in each city or town. Under the F. H. A. plan the applicant may build, buy, or refinance existing mortgages in any amount not to exceed $16,000, provided the property is well situated and otherwise acceptable. Loans are repayable over a period up to 20 years. Monthly repayments include not only principal and interest, but taxes and hazard insurance as well.

SMALL CLOSET FOR DRYING OF LINGERIE

A small closet with a heating unit in it, just off the bathroom, provides a drying place for stockings and lingerie and avoids the necessity of having the towel racks in the bathroom cluttered with laundry. Provisions for such a space may be made when a new home is being built under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

Questions and Answers

Q. Is indoor paint suitable for exterior use?

A. Outdoor paint can be used anywhere, but paints intended for indoor use should not be exposed either to weather or to air that is continuously moist. Paint for use outdoors must have qualities suited to exposure. It should have elasticity, that quality which allows it to expand and contract with extremes of temperature; also tightness which causes it to hold to its base and be proof against hard-driven rain toughness to stand the beating of sleet storms and other severe exposures.

Q. I would like a frosted or obscure glass effect on one of my windows. How can this be done without replacing the present glass?

A. Clean the glass with alcohol; cut out a sheet of tissue paper of the desired color to fit the glass and apply a spar varnish thinned with a quarter as much turpentine. This will penetrate the paper and stick it to the glass as well as make the paper water resistant.

Q. Water is seeping through our cellar windows. It seems to come from the areas outside. What can we do about this?

A. The water probably comes up through the bottom of the areas. Put a concrete floor in the areas about 8 inches below the sill and pipe the collecting water to a dry well, which should be located at least 8 feet from the house.

Q. Our garage is not connected with our house, but is a short walk from the service entrance. This is inconvenient in rainy weather. Do you think it would be practical to attempt to tear down the present structure and build a connecting one? Our house is of white frame construction.

A. If the present garage is in good condition, it would not be advisable to tear it down and build another. At less cost and with a possible pleasing effect a covered or enclosed passage could be built between your service entrance and the garage.

Q. What are the fundamentals of good practice in the installation of water piping?

A. Good practice dictates that: (1) All piping should be carefully sized; (2) branches should be as short as possible; (3) piping should be sloped for easy drainage, and drain cocks should be provided in accessible locations; (4) any lines in outside walls should be adequately insulated against freezing; (5) fixture groups should be provided with cut-off valves; (6) where water pressure in the mains exceeds 40 pounds per square inch a pressure-reducing valve should be installed; (7) the hot-water storage tank should have a minimum capacity of 40 gallons; (8) parallel hot- and cold-water lines should be separated at least 6 inches.

PROPER INSTALLATION PREVENTS CORROSION

According to Real Estate and Building Management, corrosion destroys steel, cast iron, wrought iron, and alloys to the amount of $100,000,000 annually in the United States. Annual replacement exceeds $27,000,000. Moisture, gases, and chemicals hasten corrosion, and electrolysis is a large factor. Buried pipes show largest deterioration, especially where covered by soil. Protective methods are valuable and should be used as extensively as possible.

In constructing homes this important matter should be borne in mind and necessary measures taken to give adequate protection to the piping and other metals used.

SCREEN DOORS MATCH HOME ARCHITECTURE

Screen doors need not be prosaic. Modern design has affected even this utilitarian feature, and doors may be found to suit the English, Colonial, Spanish, French, or modern homes.

An all-over, grille made up of small square wood bars, could be used to gain a play of light and shade. Louvered shutters, with screens on the inner side, give absolute privacy but interfere little with the circulation of air.

MODERN BATH HAS DRESSING ALCOVE

In building the modern home there is a tendency to increase the size of bathrooms to include sufficient space for dressing. The modern housewife, while wishing to enlarge the bathroom, insists upon decreasing the size of the kitchen, making it just large enough to hold all the latest mechanical equipment. The Federal Housing Administration insures mortgages for home financing.

Modern Simplicity

THE architecture, decoration, and furnishing of this room combine to give an air of spaciousness. An interesting feature is the one white paneled wall, after the manner of old Colonial houses. The room is in a modern home designed to meet the requirements of present-day living. Such homes may be financed under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

SOLID GROUND KEEPS CONCRETE STEPS FIRM

If concrete or masonry steps are to be installed, be sure the ground on which they are to be placed is solid and not recent fill. Filled ground settles over a long period, and the steps will settle with it.

GLASS PANEL

A modern bathroom has the tub set in an arched recess backed by a panel of structural glass. The effect is a light room with utter privacy. Bathrooms of this type may be built in homes financed by a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

PULL-OUT SHELVES HANDY FOR LINENS

Pull-out shelves are a great convenience in the linen closet. Towels, table linen, and pillow cases may be located without disturbing the neatness of the place. Provisions for a linen closet of this type may be made when a home is financed under the terms of the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration.

When a small bathroom makes it difficult to open the door without knocking into fixtures, a door divided into two and hinged like a screen might relieve the congestion.
